

Contributors

Tomoko Akami is Associate Professor at the School of Culture, History and Language at Australian National University.

Laura Almagor is LSE Teaching Fellow at the Department of International History at London School of Economics and Political Science.

Benjamin Auberer holds a PhD from the Cluster of Excellence: Asia and Europe in a Global Context at Heidelberg University.

Niels Brimnes is Associate Professor at the School of Culture and History at Aarhus University.

Quincy Cloet is a PhD student at the Department of International Politics at Aberystwyth University.

Mads Drange is a PhD student at the Department of Archeology, Conservation and History at University of Oslo.

Patrick Finney is Reader in International History at the Department of International Politics at Aberystwyth University.

Søren Friis is a PhD student at the School of Culture and History at Aarhus University.

Karen Gram-Skjoldager is Associate Professor at the School of Culture and History at Aarhus University.

Haakon A. Ikonomou is Associate Professor at the Saxo Institute at University of Copenhagen.

Torsten Kahlert holds a PhD from Humboldt University of Berlin and is an independent researcher.

Marco Moraes is a PhD student at the Department of Politics and International Relations at University of Oxford.

Michael Møller is Director-General of United Nations Office at Geneva.

Marco Ninno holds an MA from the School of Culture and History at Aarhus University and works at the Venice Biennale for the 58th International Art Exhibition.

Myriam Piguet is a PhD student at the Global Studies Institute at University of Geneva.

Paul Reef is a graduate student at the Institute for Historical, Literary and Cultural Studies at Radboud University Nijmegen.

Nikolai Schulz is Head of Programme at BUSTER Film Festival.

Hagen Schulz-Forberg is Associate Professor at the School of Culture and History at Aarhus University.

Emil Eiby Seidenfaden holds a PhD from the School of Culture and History at Aarhus University.

Helle Strandgaard Jensen is Associate Professor at the School of Culture and History at Aarhus University.

Florian Wagner is Assistant Professor for Contemporary European History in Global Perspective at University of Erfurt.