

Contents

Acknowledgements	9
Preface
By Constanze Rassmann and Laura Liv Weikop	11
1. Introduction
By Tinna Møbjerg	13
Purpose and structure of the publication	14
2. The Hammerum burial site
By Hans Rostholm and Lise Ræder Knudsen	15
Find history	15
Topography	15
The excavation	17
The burial site	17
Graves 31, 33 and 34	18
Grave 43	19
Grave 8	21
Grave 100	26
Grave 83	31
Summary	45
3. Textile and clothing production
By Ulla Mannering and Lise Ræder Knudsen	49
Textile 1, the dress	49
Textile 2, the cloak	68
Textile 3, unknown function	72
Cord, necklace	74
Fur	75
The outfit	76
4. The coiffures
By Lise Ræder Knudsen and Tinna Møbjerg	83
Introduction	83
Hair in Grave 43	83
Hair in Grave 100	85
Hair in Grave 83	87
The interdisciplinary analyses	91
Concluding remarks	92

5. Interdisciplinary analysis

5.1. Introduction

By Lise Ræder Knudsen 97

5.2. Wood analysis

By Peter Hambro Mikkelsen 101

Introduction 101
Method 101
Results 101

5.3. AMS ¹⁴C datings

By Marie Kanstrup and Jan Heinemeier 103

Chronology based on AMS radiocarbon determination 103
Data analysis 103
Dating samples from the Hammerum burial site 103
Anchoring the Hammerum burial site in time 107

5.4. Soil thin section analysis

By Nina Helt Nielsen 109

Introduction 109
Sampling beneath the Hammerum Girl 109
Results 110
Discussion 112
Conclusion 114

5.5. Strontium isotope analyses

By Karin Margarita Frei 115

The strontium isotope tracing system 115
The strontium isotope results 118

5.6. Chemical analysis

By Michelle Taube and Jens Glastrup 121

Methods 121
Details of investigation 121
Summary of results 130

5.7. Biological observations

By Frank Jensen 131

Material and methods 131
Results 131
Discussion 132
References 133

5.8. Pollen analysis
By Renée Enevold	135
Introduction and description of data	135
Method	137
Results	137
Interpretation of pollen composition in the soil samples	137
Interpretation of the pollen composition in the textile sample	139
Discussion	139
Conclusion	141
5.9. DNA analysis
By Luise Ørsted Brandt	143
Analysing ancient DNA from archaeological textiles	143
aDNA methodology and results	145
Challenges of aDNA from archaeological textiles	146
5.10. CT scanning
By Niels Lynnerup and Chiara Villa	149
Procedure	149
Conclusion	150
References	150
5.11. Fibre analyses
By Irene Skals	151
Introduction	151
Method and results	152
Discussion	156
5.12. Dye analysis
By Ina Vanden Berghe	159
Dye investigation of archaeological fibres	159
Conclusion	160
5.13. Stable isotope analysis
By Andrew S. Wilson	163
Hair survival	163
Hair sample preparation	163
Stable light isotope analysis	163
Sample descriptions and results	165

6. Making a replica of Textile 1 – the dress
By Ida Demant	167
Theoretical considerations	167
The dress of the Hammerum Girl	168
Weaving the dress	171
Warping	173
Making the heddles	176
The selvedge	177
The process of weaving	177
Speed	178
Off the loom	179
Finishing the dress	179
The added band	181
Summing up	181
7. The Hammerum Girl in the public space
By Tinna Møbjerg	187
Introduction	187
Research and presentation or research on presentation?	188
Museum Midtjylland’s presentation platforms 2010-17	188
Facebook	189
Conclusion	200
8. Perspectives and conclusions
By Tinna Møbjerg, Ulla Mannering, Hans Rostholm and Lise Ræder Knudsen ...	203
Relationship of the Hammerum burial site to other sites	203
The various central Jutland grave types	211
Roman inspiration	213
New knowledge about the care of the dead	214
9. Presentations of authors	217
10. Glossary	221